

Eastern Cottontail and Snowshoe Hare

Habitats for the Eastern cottontail are bushy areas, coniferous and hardwood forest. Snowshoe Hare habitats are thickets, fields, prairies, forest edges, swamps, suburban and urban areas

Rabbits eat all kinds of plants like grasses, clovers, berries. They also eat twigs and bark.

Rabbit diets

Diseases

Diseases

- Overgrowth teeth
- snuffles
- hairballs
- uterine tumors
- myxomatosis
- calicivirus disease

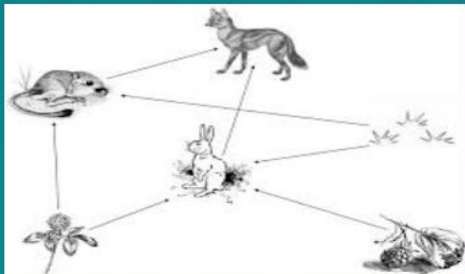

Reproduction
Have up to 5-7 babies per liter

+

+

2

Food web

Rabbits are in the middle of the food web and are food for carnivores and the rabbits eat the herbs.

3

Benefits/Nuisance

Benefits: Game and food.
Nuisance: Ruin crops.